

Keith Hadley

Principal Consultant, The Table Group

Founder, Keith Hadley Consulting, Ltd.

Keith brings over 20 years of organizational and strategy leadership to his partnership with The Table Group. Keith provides expertise in helping CEOs build cohesive teams and competitive advantage. Whether he's consulting to CEOs one-on-one or with their teams, or leading a large workshop, Keith's passion and excitement are contagious. His skill for helping teams tackle complex issues has made Keith a sought-after advisor.

Keith works with leaders and their teams to help them master the disciplines of organizational health. His clients span a broad spectrum of industries, including technology, non-profit, manufacturing, professional services and healthcare.

Keith brings a diverse background of product management, sales, marketing and organizational development. This makes him a valuable resource for leaders adapting to rapid market change and wanting to build an attractive and results-driven employee culture.

Prior to partnering with The Table Group, Keith was a vice president with technology company CareerBuilder where he headed sales development, the employment branding practice and led teams in marketing and human resources. He was a consultant at McGladrey in the human capital and strategic planning group and served at the Moody Bible Institute as the corporate trainer. Keith holds an MBA from the University of Illinois at Chicago and a Bachelor of Arts from Baylor University.

Keith lives with his wife and three children in Glen Ellyn, Illinois.

Endorsements

"Keith has been our guide on this journey towards organizational health. He has played a significant role over the past twelve months as we built a new executive team, realigned and created clarity around roles and re-engineered ourselves from the ground up with vulnerability-based trust as a foundation. It has felt like climbing a mountain, but Keith and partner James Felton have always been there to support, cheerlead and provide incredible insights to keep us moving forward. I'm very grateful to them for helping us to inspire people to transform their lives."

— Jon Brady, President, Midtown Athletic Club

"Keith's work has played an integral part in helping our exec team stay focused and aligned — impacting both our culture and our strategy. In the build-up and execution of the acquisition by Kroger, in our integration and continued growth, we've never been healthier."

— Pat Vihtelic, Founder & CEO, Home Chef
