Nate Nielsen

Principal Consultant, The Table Group

Nate brings a sincere desire to help leaders succeed, organizations thrive, and people find fulfillment in their work. His years of expertise in leading organizations and teams along with his passion to help others achieve more, led to his partnership with the Table Group.

Nate works hard to ensure that leaders and their teams are able to quickly and effectively apply the concepts in Pat Lencioni's books. He aims to be practical, relevant and maximizes his time with clients. He has worked in organizations spanning a variety of industries, including healthcare, hospitality, sports apparel, and start-ups. Nate's experience with Table Group methodology in transforming teams and organizations, has solidified his belief in its ability to change the world of work. Whether speaking to a room full of leaders or having a one-on-one conversation with a CEO, he knows that organizational health is truly the last untapped, competitive advantage.

Prior to partnering with the Table Group, Nate spent time leading high performing teams in the healthcare industry and implemented organizational health in a variety of contexts. His career and achievements are a testament to the idea that healthy organizations out-perform smart organizations every time. He has seen first-hand how organizational health affects not only the culture of the company, but its bottom line. And he is committed to bringing success and fulfillment to each of his clients.

Nate, his wife, and two daughters live in Bend, Oregon. They enjoy golfing, skiing and paddle boarding on the Deschutes river.
