Steve Turner

With thirty years of managing global business teams, running his own business's and competing in sports at the highest level, Steve brings a wealth of knowledge and experience to his clients. In leveraging this global and cultural perspective, Steve is able to provide clients with different insights on virtual and intact teams. With a clear focus on performance, Steve will inspire a team and its leader to be the best they want to be.

Currently, Steve works regularly with CEOs and executive teams in quickly and effectively applying the concepts captured in all of Pat Lencioni's books. His clients span a broad spectrum of industries, including technology, financial services, insurance and health care.

In addition to his work with consulting clients Steve brings a unique blend of sporting discipline and business acumen, underpinned by a solid financial background complimented with a love of technology.

Parallel to working Steve pursued his sporting ambitions by competing in 1988 and 1992 Olympics (Rowing) and becoming a World Medalist in 1989. Steve has lived in different countries, always looking to experience the local culture and constantly looking to apply and share the learning.

Steve lives with his partner, Clare between Norfolk, London and France.

Endorsements

“The program has helped to accelerate the mostly new leadership team to become smart and healthy. The design and implementation of the meeting rhythm has made a positive impact. Steve is a master at reading the room and moving the program forward. A great experience that has made a positive impact to the effectiveness of our leadership team and I have no reservations recommending the program.”

— Jan-Coos Geesink, MD Legal UKI Thomson Reuters

“It was the absolute best two days ever spent with external consultants. It was reflective, insightful, personally rewarding with a lot of practical knowledge to guide what we do. First time I've looked forward to engaging more with external consultants.”

— Bill Durbin, EVP Research, Americas, Wood Mackenzie
