Bill Weingartner

Principal Consultant, The Table Group

Founder, Bill Weingartner Consulting

Bill brings a unique perspective and wealth of experience to the challenge of building healthy organizations and high performing teams. Interacting closely with The Table Group since 2013, he has had the great privilege of working regularly and directly with Pat Lencioni to positively impact organizational culture and health within hundreds of non-profits across North America. As a Principal Consultant, Bill delivers high-impact sessions that generate relevant and immediate outcomes for leaders of for-profit and not-for-profit organizations.

Bill works regularly with leadership teams in quickly and effectively applying the concepts captured in all of Pat Lencioni's books, always ensuring that consulting sessions, speeches, and workshops are practical, engaging, and actionable. His clients span a broad spectrum of various industries, including financial services, health, medical, and service outreach organizations.

Bill's 32 years of experience split between corporate America, small business ownership, philanthropy, and organizational health training underlies and drives his success as a consultant with The Table Group.

Bill began his career in wholesale and retail automotive aftermarket distribution. He later returned to Denver where he owned a business services company before focusing his efforts in philanthropy. Ultimately, these efforts led Bill to working with Lencioni and The Table Group. He holds an undergraduate business degree from Oral Roberts University.

Bill lives in Denver, Colorado with his wife Roxanne.

Endorsements

“It’s been almost three years since Bill walked us through a challenge that could have been catastrophic. His authenticity and care has been unwavering, yet his straightforward approach to discussing the tough issues is bringing our organization unprecedented success. As our organization has grown, Bill has brought clarity to the challenges of growth, always bringing us back to the principles of organizational health. We have tripled our staff without losing trust, healthy conflict, commitment, accountability and results.”

—Dede Chism, Executive Director and Founder, Bella Natural Health and Wellness

“Bill is a trusted advisor that has been instrumental in teaching me the power of a healthy organization. He has always brought enthusiasm, insight, and a solution mindset to many issues I’ve faced as a leader. Bill has a natural ability to assess and address the problems that organizations face and to steer people to solutions based around true teamwork.”

—John Martin, President, Jonah Gas Co.
